

CLIENT ALERT: Employers Must Use Updated Form I-9 No Later than January 22, 2017 - By Jeffrey S. Siegel

On November 14, 2016, United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (“USCIS”) released a revised Employment Eligibility Verification Form I-9 for employer use. Employers should be familiar with this Form I-9 employment verification process, which has been in effect since 1986, requiring employers to complete and keep on file a Form I-9 for all employees hired in the United States. Employers must use the updated Form I-9 starting no later than January 22, 2017.

Among the changes, the updated Form I-9 streamlines the process for certain foreign nationals, adds prompts to ensure information is entered correctly, and contains a supplemental page for the preparer/translator. The revised form does not change an employer’s obligation to collect or retain Form I-9s.

Employers may download the updated Form I-9 (revision dated 11/14/2016) from the USCIS website.

Employers should speak to their M&J attorney to discuss any specific questions about the implementation of the new Form I-9, or about the employment eligibility verification process generally.

Jeffrey S. Siegel is a partner at Morgan, Brown & Joy, LLP. Jeff may be reached at (617) 523-6666 or at jsiegel@morganbrown.com. Morgan, Brown & Joy, LLP focuses exclusively on representing employers in employment and labor matters.

This alert was published on December 6, 2016.

This publication, which may be considered advertising under the ethical rules of certain jurisdictions, should not be construed as legal advice or a legal opinion on any specific facts or circumstances by Morgan, Brown & Joy, LLP and its attorneys. This newsletter is intended for general information purposes only and you should consult an attorney concerning any specific legal questions you may have.